CANE VS. BEET SUGAR.

Since the printing of an editorial note yesterday, commenting on the claim of Professor Koebig that beet sugar, granulated, was equal to cane sugar, the following is noticed in the sugar market review of the Hawaiian Commercial Journal:

Whatever may be the outcome in the future the indications are that beet sugar will not continue to have the influence on the cane sugar market in the future that it has had in the past. In Europe consumers are beginning to demand cane sugar from dealers, while formerly they did not stop to enquire what they were getting. Mr. Henry Waterhouse received a letter from a correspondent in Glasgow, Scotland, who is thoroughly posted on the sugar situation, who writes that "sugar factors say consumers are insisting on their dealers supplying them with cane sugar instead of other kinds, in consequence of which the outlook for the cane product is greatly improving."

James Dunn, a large sugar factor in Glasgow, Scotland, and lately Hawaiian Consul there, told the writer of these lines, in an interview at the Hawaiian Hotel six years ago, that cane sugar would always hold the supremacy over beet sugar in the markets of the world. He also expressed the opinion that raw sugar might be exported round the Horn to European markets at a profit, if the necessity ever arose for such a disposition of the Hawaiian product. While there is no doubt that the production of beet sugar in the United States will continue to increase for some time, it is equally certain that the consumption of sugar in that country will also increase and perhaps in a greater ratio than the production. There is under the circumstances no imminent danger to our chief industry, nor any reason why the area of land under sugar cane should not be increased.

OBSERVATIONS.

All over the English-speaking world, and even beyond, today the press and the platform will do honor to the memory of Thomas Carlyle, who was born one hundred years ago. The writings of this great philosopher will endure in English classics for all time. In this issue appears a paper on the subject of the centenary, written by a young Scotchman of Honolulu, which gives a terse biography of Carlyle together with some references to his literary remains.

C. P. Huntington contributed two Murillos to a loan exhibition at the Mark Hopkins Institute of Art in San Francisco. They were "Francis d'Assisi in the Land of Strangers" and "St. Gregory de Paul," and these two old masters were exhibited then for the first time in the United States. More than forty local picture-owners contributed to the exhibition. A loan exhibition conducted by the Kilauea Art League between its semi-annual exhibitions would probably be popular in Honolulu.

It can hardly be a coincidence that since the existing coal oil test law came into force there has been a great diminution in the number of fires. Previously alarms used to come in one, two, three or more within the space, often, of not more than a week or ten days. And, as the engines returned from a more or less lively blaze, the word went round, "Lamp exploded in a Chinese house." The authorities ought not to allow these times to recur.

WORTH'S CIRCUS.

Barring Accidents It Will Open Tomorrow Night.

About one hundred and fifty small boys with a fair sprinkling of men have been engaged in superintending the erection of the big tent and other paraphernalia which will house the circus people for some weeks to come, but they will be out of a job by tonight, for by that time a high board fence will have been completed on the two vacant sides of the lot and all outsiders shut out.

The big tent is in place and workmen were engaged this morning in erecting the low circular enclosure within which will be the scene of the performances. Peter High has charge of the necessary carpenter work which is being done and by the time he gets through the small boy will not even have a chance to peep through or under the canvas.

There will be no full dress rehearsal for the press or anybody else tonight as stated in a morning paper, but the horses will be exercised in the ring tomorrow morning and afternoon to take the stiffness out of their legs.

It is hoped to be able to give the first performance tomorrow evening if the necessary arrangements are completed by that time.

CHILD STRAYED.

Four-year Old Son of Turnkey Evans Missing Since Morning.

At 8 o'clock this morning the four-year old son of Harry Evans, turnkey of the police station, became missing to his mother from their home on Fort street. Mrs. Evans searched the whole neighborhood in vain, then notified her husband by telephone. The police all over town were instructed to look for the child. When Mr. Evans told a BULLETIN reporter of the matter at 12 o'clock no clue to the child's whereabouts had been discovered. Mr. and Mrs. Evans were naturally in great distress, especially as the child is of a venturesome disposition.

LATER.—A telephone message brings the joyful news that Harry von Holt found the child at the top of Nuuanu valley at 12:45 o'clock.

A Pleasant Gathering.

One of the pleasantest social events which has taken place for a long time occurred on Saturday evening last at the residence of Thomas Smith on Piikoi street, where a number of his friends gathered to celebrate the return of Mrs. Smith and children from a trip to England and to welcome Mr. Smith's father, who came back with Mrs. Smith on a short visit to his son. The party gathered at the residence of Thomas McTighe and from thence proceeded to Mr. Smith's house, taking with them a bountiful supply of refreshments of all kinds and the Kawaihau Club who furnished singing and music for the occasion. The evening was spent in social enjoyment, dancing and singing, and to those present was most enjoyable.

Those who participated were: T. McTighe and wife, J. B. Gibson and wife, P. M. Lucas and wife, David Crozier, J. S. Murrehead, Stephen Smith, A. Gillilan and mother, Mrs. Wilson and others.

G. R. Harrison, practical piano and organ maker and tuner, can furnish best factory references. Orders left at Hawaiian News Co. will receive prompt attention. All work guaranteed to be the same as done in factory.

THE HEALANI BOAT CLUB.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS IN SESSION YESTERDAY.

Captain Herrick's Report on Necessary Improvements—Another Boat Expected from Australia.

The Board of Directors of the Healani Yacht and Boat Club held an important meeting yesterday afternoon at the Chamber of Commerce.

Captain Herrick presented a long report on the improvements and repairs considered necessary to be made to the club's boat-house. About one-half of the recommendations advocated by Captain Herrick were endorsed by the Board of Directors and the balance referred to a special committee of three consisting of T. F. Lansing, C. E. Herrick and E. D. Waldron.

The Board of Directors are considering the advisability of leasing a small bathhouse in the immediate vicinity, owing to the crowded condition of their own. It will be used as a storehouse for extra boats if the lease is made. The number of boats belonging to the club is increasing so rapidly that extra room must be provided somewhere.

Among the projected improvements which will shortly be inaugurated by the Healani is the establishment of a reading room and purchase of more pleasure boats for evening parties and day-light excursions.

Another four-oared practice boat is expected to arrive by the Alameda from the Colonies next Thursday, which will further add to the present crowded condition of the boat-house.

From the above the flourishing condition of the club is apparent to anyone and the influence of the new captain is already making itself felt.

"A PROPER LUAU."

Given at S. Peck's Vineyard Street Residence Last Night.

About three hundred people attended the luau given by Mr. S. Peck to his friends on the occasion of the first birthday of his child. The house and grounds were beautifully decorated with flags, ferns and Japanese lanterns. The feast proper was given in a large tent erected for the occasion which was completely covered with flags and artistically lighted with numerous lanterns. Every delicacy of the season was provided, cooked in either Hawaiian or European style, and there was an abundance of everything to eat or drink.

The music was provided by a number of old-time native musicians who had been assembled from all parts of the island. Their playing and singing added much to the enjoyment of the guests.

During the evening a handsome purse was made up by a few friends for the youngster whose first birthday was the cause of the celebration and the amount is to be deposited in the bank as the nucleus of a future fortune.

It was long after midnight when the affair broke up, and everyone went home saying that Mr. Peck had given his friends "a proper luau."

CENTENARY OF CARLYLE.

care, assisting again and again his brother John in his medical course, how can we help admiring him all the more when we think that like numbers more of our great men, he sprang from Scotland's "hardy sons of rustic toil." In such cases, success and fame were not got with ease, for difficulties had to be surmounted, and trials overcome, unknown to those born in affluence or with no necessity to strive for any goal. It must seem indeed a picture for reverence on our part, when we think of the honest humble home, the loving brothers and sisters, waiting a xiously for all the news from the brother outside of the fold, and the tender messages sent from the God-fearing mother, along with the weekly supplies of butter and oatmeal, and the wise counsel and serious advice of the "priest-like father," who was one of the type of quiet and undemonstrative Scottish fathers, still to be met with in our native land. But I need not detain you longer with word pictures of Carlyle's home circle, the hardy stock from which he sprang, his power of endurance, or the integrity and intelligence of the entire family, for—

"From scenes like these old Scotia's grandeur springs,
That makes her loved at home, revered abroad,
Princes and lords are but the breath of kings,
An honest man's the noblest work of God."

RULED OFF THE TRACK.

Burlingame Can Ride no More at Bay District Park.

The race horses which were sent from Honolulu to San Francisco have been the cause of much comment there, which seems to be justified by their erratic performances. Ka Moi is evidently outclassed with the Coast equines and only succeeded in getting in ninth in a field of nine in his only race in the last month. On the 5th of November Amarino, ridden by Burlingame, came in fourth in a field of four in a five-and-a-half furlong race and would seem to have been equally out of luck in all his races.

Lolokalani is the only Hawaiian horse that has won a race in San Francisco and, as will be seen later, it might have been better for her owner if she had not. On November 12th she came in sixth in a field of eight in a five-furlong race, the betting being 60 to one against her. On the following day, however, in a race over the same distance with ten entries, she came in first. Time 1:02 1/4. This was an unexpected win, as long odds were placed against the horse, and the sequel thereto is that her jockey and owner, Claude Burlingame, has been ruled off the Bay District track and can never ride another race thereon.

The San Francisco Call of the 16th contains the following, which tells the story: "The acrobatic running of the Honolulu horses has caused considerable comment. The unexpected win of Lolokalani on November 12th caused the board of stewards to make some inquiries. The running and wild plunges on Amarino yesterday capped the climax. Schreiber laid 30 to 1 against this horse, but he was cut down to 8 to 5, money pouring in on the Honolulu horse. Amarino did not get any part of the money, but it was principally due to being cut off several times. The board of stewards met at the conclusion of the race and decided that Claude Burlingame could not ride again at the Bay District track."

ADDRESSED TO THE YOUNG MAN WHO WANTS A TANDEM.

Young man, you will do well to wait until you see the Tribune Tandems, which will be the finest manufactured, embodying all the latest improvements up to 1896. Don't be deceived into buying a lot of Stearns' "Yellow Fellows" that are back numbers and were manufactured in 1894 and sold on the western shores in 1895 as up to date, when they are not. We have reason to believe and are so informed by reliable San Francisco agents that the "Stearns" wheels that have been imported and placed on sale here are not of the latest pattern, and hence caution would-be purchasers to look out for themselves and not be deceived into buying an antiquated wheel.

One of the largest dealers in bicycles in the United States furnishes us with the following information in regard to the "Stearns" wheel for publication:

"This is a wheel that, owing to the nice finish and the fact that they were the first to get out an adjustable handle bar, took quite a spurt, but we have known of many cases where they have not given satisfaction. The writer in October, 1894, bought a 'Stearns' wheel that was badly out of order in December. He sold it to a friend of his and it has been the cause of complaint constantly since. At the same time two 'Stearns' ladies' wheels were purchased, and they have been a source of expense and annoyance ever since, until the two ladies owning them sold them at a sacrifice and bought Tribunes, and they claim that the Tribune wheel is far superior to the Stearns."

These facts speak for themselves. We ask any intending purchaser to take one of the Stearns wheels to any first-class mechanic and have him take it apart and compare it with the corresponding features of the Tribune wheel. We know that an honest opinion would be that the Tribune is by far the better wheel and hence make the challenge.

We have some Tribune Tandems on the way here direct from the factory. The reason we did not get them on the Australia was because they were not finished. Everybody remembers Punch's advice to people about to get married, which was "Don't." We give the same advice to those about to purchase a Stearns tandem or single wheel. Call and examine the Tribunes; they are far superior in every respect and won't eat up your wages in repairs.

We have ten boys' and girls' wheels for Christmas, and we intend to sell every one of them.
